

At 4:31 A.M., on January 17, 1994, an earthquake measuring 6.6 hit southern California. The quake caused nearly $20 billion in damage. Using resources in your classroom, learn about what engineers are doing today to help design buildings that can better withstand earthquakes.