

On January 9, 1913, Richard Nixon was born. Before becoming our thirty-seventh President, he attempted to become the governor of California, but lost the election. Using resources in your classroom, learn about what it takes to be a governor of a state. Are there any special requirements like the office of President?