

On September 23, 1938, a seven-foot time capsule was buried on the grounds of the World's Fair in New York City. A number of everyday items were placed in the capsule with the directions to be opened in five thousand years. If your teacher asked you to create a time capsule today, what items would you place in the capsule and why?